

Miniature Golf Raises Big Bucks for Lackawanna Pro Bono program

Golfers young and old were putting for pro bono in Lackawanna County on Saturday, August 12, 2006 as a miniature golf fundraiser brought in more than $1200 for Lackawanna Pro Bono, Inc. (LPBInc.) in the inaugural Putt for Pro Bono effort.

More than forty players tackled the tricky greens at the Lahey Family Fun Park, but the bulk of donations came from the hole sponsors listed below. There were prizes galore for the participants as everyone enjoyed a day on the "links". All of the prizes were donated and included gift certificates from various restaurants, movie tickets, toys, and a variety of items (ranging from a very nice athletic bag to key chains) donated by the park. LPBInc. Executive Director Sylvia Hahn summed up the event: "We had perfect weather and great support, so we couldn't have asked for more." The success of the day may mean bigger projects are in the future. "We're talking about doing a "real" (not miniature) golf tournament next year, Hahn noted, adding a small caveat--"we'll see!"
